

Understand the mitzvah. Prepare with intention.

Clear English lessons from the laws of Sukkot, paired with practical ideas from Atomic Habits. The law stays the law. Better preparation helps you carry it out.

40 source chapters Orach Chayim 625–664, 210 paragraphs

21/40 short videos English law + habit parallel

20 habit themes Every main book chapter connected

Comparative study guide. Obligation, recommendation and community custom are distinct. Diagrams are conceptual illustrations, not certificates of sukkah or botanical validity.

START WITH THE ESSENTIALS

One festival. Two central mitzvot.

A valid sukkah

Suitable roof covering, valid stable walls, adequate shade and required dimensions.

Dwelling

Use the sukkah for required meals and sleep, with the law's exemptions and special first-night conditions.

Four species

Lulav, etrog, three myrtles and two willows; inspect species, condition, measurements and ownership.

The right day

Take the species during daytime, except Shabbat. Israel and the Diaspora have different festival schedules.

Habit cues, environment design and rehearsal support these practices. They cannot replace a required quantity, a valid object, ownership, a blessing rule or a permitted time.

SOURCE → PRINCIPLE → PRACTICE

The learning library.

Each card identifies a complete canonical chapter, highlights its main practical issues, and gives a clearly labelled habit analogy. Open the source drawer to read every paragraph.

O.C. 625 / SUKKAH CONSTRUCTION

Why we dwell in a sukkah

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Remember the protection given during the Exodus.
- Intend to fulfil the mitzvah when dwelling in the sukkah.
- Begin practical preparations promptly after Yom Kippur.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 02

Turn your chosen identity into a visible preparation.

Build evidence for your identity ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Keep the roof under open sky

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- A building roof or tree above the sukkah can invalidate it.
- Tree branches and mixed coverings require detailed evaluation.
- Retractable roofs must be properly opened for dwelling.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 06

Make the correct location your default before building.

Let your surroundings remind you ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Avoid an intervening canopy

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- A bed or canopy can create a separate covering below the roof.
- Height, width and whether a canopy is fixed affect the ruling.
- Do not assume every tent inside a sukkah is acceptable.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 07

Remove an obstacle before it repeatedly interrupts the mitzvah.

Remove unnecessary temptation ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Check stacked and mobile structures

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- A sukkah underneath another sukkah has special validity rules.
- A mobile sukkah must withstand an ordinary wind.
- Access involving a tree or animal has festival restrictions.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 18

Choose a workable setting instead of forcing an unsuitable one.

Choose a practice that fits you ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Choose valid roof materials

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Roof covering must be detached plant material.
- It must not be susceptible to ritual impurity; processed objects need examination.
- Mats, planks, bundles and supports have additional rules.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 12

Buy appropriate materials early and remove setup friction.

Remove steps from the good habit ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Build stable, valid walls

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Walls may use materials that cannot be used for the roof.
- The minimum two-and-a-partial-third configuration has precise conditions.
- Three complete stable walls simplify many practical questions.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 17

Arrange a competent inspection partner and a concrete check-in.

Use supportive accountability ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Create the required shade

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- At roof level, shade must exceed sunlight.
- Holes, uneven roof surfaces and dangling branches have further conditions.
- Prefer comfortable shade without making a permanent rainproof ceiling.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 04

Observe the actual result instead of guessing.

Notice your autopilot ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Measure gaps and invalid covering

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Air gaps and invalid roof materials have different limits.
- Their position can change whether the whole sukkah remains valid.
- Do not treat a simple gap measurement as a full validity certificate.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 20

Review weak points with a precise checklist.

Review the routine to keep improving ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Respect the height boundaries

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Minimum interior height is ten tefachim.
- Height above twenty amot is invalid.
- Raising floors or lowering coverings involves detailed conditions.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 14

Make a correct measurement before locking in the structure.

Prepare your future choice ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

633:8 translation issue: exactly ten tefachim meets the minimum height. The invalid case is below ten, as the Hebrew and Peninei Halakha 13:2:1 clarify.

Leave enough usable space

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- The sukkah must contain at least seven by seven tefachim.
- Rounded shapes must contain the required square area.
- Keep the table in the sukkah rather than eating toward a table outside.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 13

A tiny starting task is helpful; a tiny invalid sukkah is not.

Start with a two-minute version ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Create the roof through a valid act

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- A shelter built for shade can be suitable even without festival-specific intent.
- A structure that simply becomes covered by itself can be invalid.
- Carving space in a haystack needs the construction conditions in the source.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 11

Perform the real preparatory action instead of only planning it.

Practise instead of only preparing ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Renew an existing sukkah

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- An older sukkah has rules concerning renewal for the festival.
- The source describes renewing even a small roof area.
- Festival-specific construction intention affects the older-sukkah case.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 01

Make one real improvement to a setup you already have.

Small actions accumulate ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Borrow respectfully; never steal

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- A borrowed sukkah can fulfil the mitzvah.
- Stolen materials and unauthorized use require distinct legal analysis.
- If necessary, a sukkah can be built during permitted Chol HaMoed work.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 09

Use supportive community access with clear permission.

Choose a supportive social setting ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Respect dedicated materials

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Sukkah wood and decorations become restricted for ordinary use.
- Duration and conditions differ between materials and festival settings.
- Do not casually remove or repurpose decorations during the festival.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 07

Store ordinary substitutes separately to avoid temptation.

Remove unnecessary temptation ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Make the sukkah your dwelling

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Required meals and sleep belong in the sukkah, subject to exemptions.
- The first night has a special bread obligation; amounts and rain need care.
- Meal thresholds, blessings and sleeping customs need your community guidance.
- The first-night bread obligation begins after nightfall: at least a kezayit, preferably before halakhic midnight, with community guidance on measures.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 05

Attach the meal routine to moving into the sukkah.

Give your action a clear cue ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Understand obligations and exemptions

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Women are exempt from obligatory sukkah dwelling but may participate.
- Children require age-appropriate education; illness and genuine distress can exempt.
- Travel, essential duties and caregivers have conditions, not blanket exemptions.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 18

Fit preparation to real circumstances rather than manufacturing an exemption.

Choose a practice that fits you ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Separate building from its blessings

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- No construction blessing is normally recited for building the sukkah.
- Shehecheyanu is generally included in festival Kiddush.
- Building for someone else and unusual timing have further details.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 15

Enjoy completing preparation without inventing a religious formula.

Give progress an immediate payoff ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Follow the Shabbat prayer framework

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- When the first festival night is Shabbat, prayer has special wording.
- The seven-blessing summary follows the Shabbat conclusion in this chapter.
- Use the correct communal siddur and prayer setting.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 09

Use an established group routine rather than improvising.

Choose a supportive social setting ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Prepare the Kiddush sequence

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- The first-night sequence includes wine, festival sanctification, sukkah and time.
- Standing and sitting customs differ between authorities.
- Use your tradition's siddur for the exact sequence and text.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 03

Make the next step visible in the correct sequence.

Understand the habit loop ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Place the four species in the morning service

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- The morning service includes taking the species and full Hallel.
- The source describes the festival service and blessing traditions.
- Taking the species is omitted on Shabbat, even when Hallel is said.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 05

Connect preparation to a reliable morning anchor.

Give your action a clear cue ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Inspect the lulav carefully

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Inspect the central leaf, spine, top and condition of the leaves.
- Splitting, severing, bending and dryness have distinct rules.
- A borderline lulav needs knowledgeable inspection, not a picture-only verdict.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 20

Review quality instead of counting possession as completion.

Review the routine to keep improving ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Translation issue: in645:1 the English “totally separated” conflicts with the Hebrew. The preferred lulav has unseparated leaves. Read the Hebrew for this wording.

Identify a suitable myrtle branch

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- A valid hadas normally has three leaves emerging at one level.
- Density along the required length and leaf loss matter.
- Berries, dryness and a cut top have additional conditions.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 04

Look closely at the defining feature before choosing.

Notice your autopilot ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Identify the willow species

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- The willow has identifying leaf and stem characteristics.
- A similar-looking alternative species may be invalid.
- Dryness, loss of leaves and a cut tip can invalidate a branch.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 10

Satisfy the real need with the correct item, not a tempting look-alike.

Find the need behind the habit ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Examine the etrog and its provenance

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Check dryness, missing material, the top, stem, stains and shape.
- A naturally absent pitam differs from one that broke off.
- Minimum size is an egg's volume; grafting requires reliable provenance.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 19

Learn one inspection skill at a time without overlooking validity.

Keep the challenge manageable ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Distinguish first-day and later-day defects

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Stolen species are unacceptable; acquisition details need careful review.
- Wrong species and specimens below the minimum size remain invalid throughout the festival; later-day leniencies apply only to particular defects.
- Sephardic and Ashkenazic rulings differ on several invalidities.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 20

Recheck the context rather than applying yesterday's rule automatically.

Review the routine to keep improving ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Check the species measurements

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- The lulav spine requires four tefachim.
- Myrtle and willow require three tefachim.
- The lulav spine must extend at least one tefach above the hadasim and aravot; measurement traditions and exceptional cases need guidance.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 14

Prepare a suitable measuring tool before shopping.

Prepare your future choice ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Take all four species correctly

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Use one lulav, three myrtle branches, two willow branches and one etrog.
- Take them in their growth orientation; bless before completing the act.
- Handedness, binding, shaking order and interpositions have tradition-specific details.
- Women are exempt from taking the four species; voluntary participation and blessings follow established community practice.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 11

Practise the sequence before the festival; the complete mitzvah remains required.

Practise instead of only preparing ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Use the daytime opportunity

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Taking the species is a daytime mitzvah.
- The whole day is available; prompt performance is preferred.
- A missed morning can be recovered later that day.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 05

Use a morning cue and a same-day recovery reminder.

Give your action a clear cue ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Respect designated fragrance use

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Myrtle designated for the mitzvah must not be used for smelling.
- Avoid smelling the mitzvah etrog because of the blessing dispute.
- Designation and preparation affect which restrictions apply.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 07

Keep a separate fragrance available instead of using a restricted shortcut.

Remove unnecessary temptation ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Keep the species fresh correctly

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- The source permits returning the lulav to water on Yom Tov.
- Adding water and replacing water have different festival rules.
- Chol HaMoed allows the appropriate freshness routine.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 12

Prepare storage and an allowed care checklist in advance.

Remove steps from the good habit ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Plan transport before the festival

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Species brought from beyond the festival boundary have a specific case ruling.
- Permission for the item does not permit every transport instruction.
- Asking someone to do prohibited work requires separate evaluation.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 14

Set logistics beforehand rather than improvising an unlawful shortcut.

Prepare your future choice ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Balance beauty and resources

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Beautifying a mitzvah can require additional expenditure within defined limits.
- The one-third rule has details concerning what is compared.
- Resources and obligation affect the practical financial ruling.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 08

Make the preparation appealing within a responsible budget.

Make the routine appealing ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Teach children through real practice

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- A child able to perform the shaking receives practical mitzvah education.
- Give age-appropriate instruction and suitable species access.
- First-day ownership must be handled carefully before giving a set to a child.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 13

Begin instruction with one manageable rehearsal, then teach the whole act.

Start with a two-minute version ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Ownership and the Shabbat exception

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Do not take the four species on Shabbat.
- First-day fulfilment requires ownership, not an ordinary loan.
- A conditional gift works only if its return conditions are fulfilled.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 17

Use a clear agreement and check the festival calendar.

Use supportive accountability ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Use the correct festival Torah readings

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- The chapter specifies the festival Torah readings and maftir.
- The schedule follows the festival and location.
- Use the local synagogue's calendar rather than extrapolating from another place.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 06

Keep the correct calendar where it will be used.

Let your surroundings remind you ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Follow the Hoshanot custom

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- The chapter describes daily circling and seven circuits on the seventh day.
- Shabbat, possession of species and mourning affect participation customs.
- Follow the synagogue's order and do not invent a universal arrangement.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 09

Let a knowledgeable community guide a shared routine.

Choose a supportive social setting ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Notice the second-night difference

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- This chapter addresses the second festival night in the Diaspora.
- Its Kiddush sequence differs from the first-night sequence.
- Israel does not observe a second Sukkot festival day in the same way.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 04

Observe which day and location you are in before acting.

Notice your autopilot ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Continue without repeating every first-day blessing

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- The taking blessing continues on eligible festival days.
- Shehecheyanu is not repeated routinely for the species on day two.
- If day one was Shabbat, the first actual taking has its own blessing sequence.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 16

Track completion accurately while respecting each day's conditions.

Make consistency visible ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Follow the Chol HaMoed reading schedule

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- The Torah-reading order follows the current festival day.
- Israel and Diaspora reading arrangements differ.
- Shabbat Chol HaMoed has a distinct reading and haftarah.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 06

Place a correct day-by-day reference beside the routine.

Let your surroundings remind you ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

Prepare separately for Hoshana Rabbah

THE HALAKHIC PRINCIPLE

- Hoshana Rabbah has additional prayer and willow customs.
- The separate willow practice has no blessing.
- Arrange appropriate branches and follow your community’s handling and disposal customs.

THE HABIT PARALLEL · CHAPTER 15

Prepare the materials and enjoy completion without inventing a reward ritual.

Give progress an immediate payoff ↗

The parallel helps preparation and learning; it does not change the mitzvah.

Open video or reference ↗ · Canonical source ↗

KNOW YOUR TRADITION

Differences that change practice.

These examples show why a shared learning guide must preserve community differences. Follow your established tradition for practical decisions.

Question	Mainstream Sephardic practice	Ashkenazic practice / comparison
Women and blessings	Voluntary participation; commonly no blessing on a time-bound mitzvah. Some Sephardic women have an established lulav-blessing custom.	Voluntary participation commonly includes the blessing.
First-night rain	Shulchan Arukh applies the rain exemption; timing and waiting need specific guidance.	Rema requires the first-night bread in rain without the sukkah blessing; consult the conditions.
Leishev on foods	Bread and other grain foods have distinct blessing thresholds.	Different thresholds and practices; do not copy a quantity from another tradition.
Left-handed taking	Shulchan Arukh: lulav in the physical right hand.	Rema: lulav in the dominant hand, left for a left-handed person.
Shaking order and sleeping	Follow community instructions; details differ.	Different established customs are not a universal exemption or new obligation.

Question	Mainstream Sephardic practice	Ashkenazic practice / comparison
Israel / Diaspora	This is a location difference, not a Sephardic/Ashkenazic difference. The second festival day and associated readings must follow the correct location.

Sources: O.C.639–640,651; participation, first night, sukkah blessing. Most cases have additional conditions in the complete text.

FROM KNOWING TO PREPARING

A small preparation plan.

THE COMPLETE HABIT MAP

Twenty ideas, connected.

Every main Atomic Habits chapter has at least one connection in this guide. The standalone companion contains the twenty original English chapter summaries and its own short demonstrations.

ATOMIC HABITS 01 Small actions accumulate Linked sources: 636	ATOMIC HABITS 02 Build evidence for your identity Linked sources: 625
ATOMIC HABITS 03 Understand the habit loop Linked sources: 643	ATOMIC HABITS 04 Notice your autopilot Linked sources: 631, 646, 661
ATOMIC HABITS 05 Give your action a clear cue Linked sources: 639, 644, 652	ATOMIC HABITS 06 Let your surroundings remind you Linked sources: 626, 659, 663
ATOMIC HABITS 07 Remove unnecessary temptation Linked sources: 627, 638, 653	ATOMIC HABITS 08 Make the routine appealing Linked sources: 656
ATOMIC HABITS 09 Choose a supportive social setting Linked sources: 637, 642, 660	ATOMIC HABITS 10 Find the need behind the habit Linked sources: 647
ATOMIC HABITS 11 Practise instead of only preparing	ATOMIC HABITS 12 Remove steps from the good habit

Linked sources: 635, 651

Linked sources: 629, 654

ATOMIC HABITS 13

Start with a two-minute version

Linked sources: 634, 657

ATOMIC HABITS 14

Prepare your future choice

Linked sources: 633, 650, 655

ATOMIC HABITS 15

Give progress an immediate payoff

Linked sources: 641, 664

ATOMIC HABITS 16

Make consistency visible

Linked sources: 662

ATOMIC HABITS 17

Use supportive accountability

Linked sources: 630, 658

ATOMIC HABITS 18

Choose a practice that fits you

Linked sources: 628, 640

ATOMIC HABITS 19

Keep the challenge manageable

Linked sources: 648

ATOMIC HABITS 20

Review the routine to keep improving

Linked sources: 632, 645, 649

Open the Atomic Habits companion ↗

READ THE FULL SOURCES

A complete base text.
A transparent study guide.

Complete O.C.625–664 · English + Hebrew PDF ↗

Full source text in the browser ↗

Simple English guide and parallels · PDF ↗

Full source corpus · 40 chapters / 210 paragraphs ↗

Editions, licensing and translation notes ↗

Canonical text on Sefaria ↗

Peninei Halakha · detailed contemporary explanations ↗

Atomic Habits · original book ↗

This includes all paragraphs of the selected canonical chapters, not every later responsum or every possible application. Community translation is preserved; the noted 633:8 and 645:1 errors are flagged. Contemporary construction materials, botanical defects and unusual circumstances require their specific authorities.

SUKKOT × SMALL PRACTICE · researched 27 September 2026

Independent educational guide. Habit analogies are original and are not halakhic sources. No rabbinic endorsement is claimed.